

ASX Release

4 February 2013

Rubicon CEO announces Group reorganisation

Rubicon Group Limited (ASX: RUB) today announced a reorganisation as part of an ongoing strategic review of the Group.

Sue Turk has been promoted from General Manager, Operations to the new role of Chief Operating Officer (COO). As COO, Sue will work closely with the CEO and the businesses in leading the operational strategy, management and overall performance of the recruitment businesses across Australia, New Zealand and Singapore.

Paul Cooper has been appointed to the role of Group Managing Director of Workforce Services. While continuing to run Challenge Recruitment, Paul will be responsible for growing contract and temporary revenue streams by developing new volume-based recruitment services catering to the temporary recruitment market.

Rubicon's new Chief Executive Officer, Mr Kevin Levine, said, "The new organisational structure will streamline operations, improve performance levels and reduce the company's cost structure, while leveraging and maximising the Group's existing footprint and resources."

Enquiries:

Kevin Levine
CEO, Rubicon Group
Tel: 02 8061 0000

Patrick Sinclair
Symbol Strategic Communications
Tel: 02 8079 2969

About Rubicon

Established in 2005, Rubicon has 22 operating companies offering search, selection, bulk recruitment, professional and support level contracting services and organizational development.

Each operating company possesses distinct competitive advantages including a strong business culture; integrity and specialist industry focus. The businesses are directed and staffed by industry professionals with extensive experience in their field.

For more information please visit www.rubicon.com.au.

For personal use only