

Temporary Recruitment

Fuse is a focused, specialist recruitment consultancy with a proven capability of delivering tailored recruitment services to our customers. We have extensive experience delivering permanent and temporary recruitment solutions to our clients in Australia and New Zealand. We currently deliver outstanding permanent talent to a large scope of clients. Our key recruitment speciality is within the Infrastructure, Utilities, Manufacturing and Insurance & Wealth Management sectors.

We pride ourselves on being a single source supplier for many clients. Our industry specialisation allows us to source roles at all levels within a business; from Line Operators and Labourers to Chief Executive Officers and Senior Business Unit Leaders.

Fuse consultants have access to the latest databases, data analysis, communications and advertising technology and use this to regularly engage experienced candidates in areas where other companies struggle to gain attention.

Our highly effective candidate sourcing process, together with our Account Management structure, delivers our clients with a strong shortlist for every role we recruit for. We endeavour to execute recruitment methods that align to a provision of quality service for our clients, which is why we are BSI certified in ISO9001 Quality Management and AS/NZS4801 Occupational Health and Safety Management. Our recruitment methodology can be broken down into four stages of the recruitment process; candidate sourcing, candidate assessment, candidate placement, and finally, post placement.

If you have a vacancy in your business which you are looking to fill or are simply interested in finding out more information about our temporary recruitment solutions, please do not hesitate to contact us:
