About Moonee Valley

Moonee Valley City Council is a local government within the north-west metropolitan area of Melbourne, Victoria, Australia.

We formed in 1994 as the result of a merger between the City of Essendon and City of Keilor.

Our city is a mostly residential area covering 43 km², located between four and 13 kilometres from Melbourne's CBD. The city is divided into three wards – Rose Hill, Buckley and Myrnong.

Around 118,000 residents or 47,000 households call Moonee Valley home. The community is culturally and linguistically diverse, with more than a quarter of the population born overseas

We are responsible for providing a range of services for residents and businesses within the City of Moonee Valley. These include areas of childcare, aged and disability, libraries, animal registration, planning, street cleaning, parking management, citizenship ceremonies, garbage collection and recycling.

We also look after community buildings, footpaths and roads, parks and gardens, bridges, drains and street furniture, environmental areas, recreation centres and sporting grounds.

We have a set of customer service standards that we believe in and follow.

Our Moonee Valley 2040 Strategic Plan sets out the Strategic Direction of Council. Moonee Valley Council Staff are led by Chief Executive Officer Helen Sui, with the leadership structure serving the organisation and community from the perspectives of three key functions: Think, Do and Enable.
