3 Questions to Ask Yourself if You're Stuck in your Job Search

Are you being consistent with your job search efforts?

Consider how often you look for viable opportunities and send in applications. Ideally, you should do this weekly leaving no gaps in between your efforts. Even if you've narrowed down a couple of good leads, continue your search until you've secured your most ideal role.

Are you targeting the most appropriate roles?

Do the jobs you're applying for match your background and qualifications? While not every company is the same in terms of size and cultural fit, it's important to apply for roles where you've clearly demonstrated you either have the skills or experience to succeed.

Are you appealing to the right people?

While different companies have different recruitment processes, it's important that you do your research and identify the key decision-makers and if you're the best fit for what they're looking for. This needs to show in your resume, cover letter and during the interview stage.
